Guidelines for New Courses, New Term Topics, New Topics Categories, and Course Conversions

- Memo: New course proposals must include a memo from the Chair, Departmental Representative or Program Director (uploaded in the Course Management System, or CMS). The memo should state that the course comes with departmental/program approval and include the following information:
 - Relation of the proposed course to other courses in the department or program, or to similar courses in other fields.
 - General education designation, if any, that the course will fulfill. Please note that the Council on Science and Technology must also approve the STL or STN designation for courses that have no prerequisites and are otherwise appropriate for the general education of all students.
 - Long-range plans for the course and its impact on the curriculum: (a) if the proposal is for a permanent course, please explain the role it will play in your undergraduate offerings; (b) if the proposal is for an OTO course, please indicate whether you expect to convert it to a permanent course should it prove to be successful.
 - Staffing resources available for the course. Please note, for example, if an existing course will be dropped or altered in conjunction with adding the proposed course. (Approval of a new course by the Committee on the Course of Study will not, itself, provide justification for an increase in FTEs or AI hours.)
- Syllabus: New course proposals must include a preliminary syllabus (uploaded in the CMS). Please be sure that dates listed in the syllabus are consistent with Princeton's academic calendar and that the deadlines adhere to the academic rules governing the submission of work (e.g., Dean's Date). The expectation of the Dean of the College is that each course will require an average of 6-9 hours of work outside of class per week. When assigning percentages to graded components, please remember that no more than 50% of the final grade may be determined by any one assignment, and that participation should normally not exceed 30% of the final grade.

- Cross-listing confirmation: If the proposed course will be cross-listed, please obtain written justification as well as the course number for the cross-listings from the cooperating department(s). A course normally may not carry more than three cross-listings. A copy of the e-mail correspondence from the cross-listed department(s) or program(s) (uploaded into the CMS) will suffice.

Guidelines for New Certificate Program Proposals

Proposals for new certificate programs will first be reviewed by the Dean and Deputy Dean of the College. After the deans' review, the process is as follows:

1. Review by the Academic Planning Group (APG);
2. Review by the Committee on the Course of Study (COCS);
3. Review and approval by the Faculty.

The proposal should come under a cover memo from the faculty member(s), include draft language for the Undergraduate Announcement, and address at least the following:

- What need does the program meet?
- Does the program overlap with existing courses or programs? If so, how is it distinct?
- What existing or proposed courses will satisfy program requirements?
- Who will direct the program? What other faculty members are involved? Have they made the necessary commitment to sustain the program?
- What new resources, if any, will be required to support the program and where will they come from?
